

* * *

PLASTIC STICKS it calls "Elsie Stix" are promoted by Borden Co. both as holders for frozen novelty products and as building toys. It predicts plastic will eventually replace the seven billion wooden sticks used in the frozen novelty business each year. Popsicle Industries, the big user of wooden sticks, says it is looking at the idea but has no plans to make the switch.

* * *

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL,
Thursday, April 13, 1972